Interview Preparation
Masterclass

A picture is worth a thousand words. Can you recall these two images? Do they have something in common?

- Both look foolish and stupid
- Both were working under stress
- They were narrow-sighted and could only look at what was in front of them
- From the outside, we feel we are much more brilliant than them
- In reality, both of them were actually clever

KEY takeaways – We look foolish under stress situation. We need to have bird's eye view to react under stressful situation. A mentor may not be more brilliant than a student, but what they must have is the bird's eye view.

Bird's eye view
